[...] And in the Plain States tonight, they are dealing with weather of an entirely different variety, digging out from the first really big winter storm of the year – the worst blizzard to hit parts of that area in ten years, in fact. Thousands of post-Thanksgiving travelers were stranded, thousands more lost power. However, travelers weren't the only ones stuck; trucks were stopped all over the highways in the Dakotas and Minnesota. The good news tonight: most of the major highways have reopened.
